

As an educator and Teacher-Librarian, I feel very strongly that children need to have access to a wide variety of books in both their school libraries and public libraries that offer different viewpoints and perspectives. When we deprive children, we limit their ability to think critically and limit their views on being world citizens. Thank you.