As retired citizens, having lived in Oregon our entire lives, it has been extremely infuriating watching and living with ever insane mismanagement and waste of funding for crap, when we worked our entire lives to see otherwise. I wanted to leave this state three years ago. We have the worst example of humanity running things because the liberal animals in Portland, Salem, and Eugene outnumber those of us that see where we are heading. We are one of the highest taxed states in the union. Also highest for homeless, highest in drug deaths, and lowest in education standards and results. Go Oregon! The constant demand and search for new ways to get in our wallets is infuriating. We are taxed to death. We want to stay in the home we built, and it's ever harder to do so because of this states unbridled greed. Absolute, unequivocal NO to the state government having anything to do with our property tax. As bad as it is for rate, the existing system at least is controlled and disbursed with our local entities, and used for such. Small comfort, but a win compared to this proposal nonetheless. I want no part of more taxes or more state involvement in our lives. If this gets passed, I may win the argument to leave. So sick of this constant destructive one-thing-after-another in this state. Oregon in no way is the state I grew up in, and no longer anything to have a drop of respect for. Count me in for a flaming vivid no on this issue.
