My name is Kent and I will be 75 this coming May. I was finally able to retire when I hit 70 but life isn't easy, especially when you have to budget. Right now I'm living within my budget but not knowing what each year's tax base will be, makes it impossible for me to plan How I can and can't spend my money which isn't a lot and my social security isn't a lot . Life at the age of 75 a stressful enough with medical complications coming left and right. Trying to figure out how you're going to live. How you are going to get through the month and then not knowing what's going to happen come tax time. I think this is the wrong direction. It shows that you don't care about the people that are out here. I hope you reconsider.
