

Submitter: William Curtis

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Rules

Measure: HJR201

HJR201 is an outrageous attack on Oregon homeowners. Oregon is already a high tax state and this will further damage limited income families and discourage people from moving to Oregon. It is unconscionable to require rural homeowners to bail out the mismanagement of the large cities. It doesn't help that the legislature continues to pass laws (e.g. drug legalization) that help create these problems. It appears that the legislature is trying to create an unlimited slush fund to disguise mismanagement. I will vote against any legislator that supports this.
