Many addicts will not just get treatment by choice and it is obvious there have not been enough treatment options provided. Court ordered treatment seems to be a much more effective route to helping more addicts recover. 110 has lead to a lack of enforcement because there are no penalties allowing drug dealers to roam free.

A 16 year old was selling my 14 year old drugs and the authorities told me there was nothing they could do unless it was "significant amounts" and stated even then it it's unlikely they would prosecute.

110 has been a miserable failure and and the resources promised have been left empty!
