Being a previous addict that has had been "caught" I can tell you that court ordered recovery DOES NOT WORK. Also Sandy Chung is incorrect that even a "very small" amount of a banned drug is a low-level, victimless crime. We are all victims of these drug addicts no matter how much they have on them. I have paid my debt to society and people that carry and use banned controlled substances should also do the same. Otherwise they will only hurt themselves or somebody else. By the way there is recovery options behind bars.
