Measure: SB1548

Let's change this, but permanent daylight time instead of standard time. I work all freaking day in an office - I want sunlight at night time. I couldn't care less if it's dark in the morning. It does matter to me when I'm trying to complete the rest of life and it's dark when I leave work. It's a major, depressive drag. I understand the reality that switching back and forth is disruptive and it's easier to switch to standard time than daylight time, but the easy thing isn't always the right thing. The right thing is permanent daylight time.
