I am writing in opposition of this proposal. There have already been two attempts at pushing through greater taxation of the people in recent months for this proposed goal. The people spoke loudly that we did not want it then and we still do not want it. We are overburdened with inflation as it is. We have to tighten our budgets, so does the government. I worked in government during the last recession. I first faced furloughs for many months, then I was let go because I was the last hired in my department. Cuts have to be made at times. The people are not a piggy bank to be raided when things get hard. There are other ways to find money within your coffers without pilfering in our pockets. Please look there first.
