We are at a crossroads. Funding a war with the United States over sanctuary cities and transgender issues is a losing proposition. It is time to decide whether radical policies are worth this line in the sand. To most Oregonians struggling to make ends meet with rising electrical and water bills, there is no doubt: safety and normalcy are what we will choose every time. Tina Kotek is out of touch with most Oregonians. This is not a partisan issue. Stop taxing us for your agendas. We do not want to pay for your mistakes. ODOT needs to tackle this from within, and it won't take top-heavy management. It is time for common sense.
