To Whom It Concerns,

We Oregonians are sick and tired of the increased tax burden placed on us by you, our government. I do not support any increase in our taxes. ODOT needs to refocus its' priorities and fix our roads so they are safe. I have lived and traveled all over the United States, and have come to the conclusion that Oregon has some of the worst roads in the entire country. Potholes, narrow roads, insufficient number of lanes, poor merging onto freeways, missing guardrails, bike lanes that suddenly disappear, lack of painted road markings, the list goes on and on. Priorities must be shifted from idiotic feel good projects to one of improving our transportation infrastructure fundamental to our livelihood and safety. You must do this without raising taxes and fees, which are already too high. Thank you for listening.

Sincerely,

Alan M. Kellogg
