Hello, I sent an email a couple hours ago and neglected to also say, that while I am compassionate to the needs of people, we are a country of laws. Those who come here illegally are expensive to deal with, (the bad actors are really expensive) and we tax payors foot that bill. I don't believe that is beholden to us as a society to do so. While the rich might be able to afford it, do many of them want to? Many of us struggle and would love a tax break, you simply want to keep taxing us, rather than cutting out unnecessary costs and wasteful spending. You've apparently gotten used to wasteful spending, and yeah the political hype of giving can get you elected. And as far as the immigration matter goes, that's on you too, not us. We don't have a say in it, and you want to tax us more. This needs to stop. Get efficient, get legal, get lean and mean. Wake up! We cannot afford how this is going. We can't.
