We need cost-effective solutions to the safety and maintenance needs on our roads throughout Oregon. Eugene's success in passing voter-approved bond measures for street repair shows that voters support transportation projects that:

- maintain roads to avoid the need for expensive major reconstruction
- recognize the needs of the many Oregonians who do NOT drive cars, and who are dying on the roads at alarming rates
- are accountable and transparent both in the selection of projects and in the completion of projects on-time and on-budget.

I have long awaited needed safety improvements in Lane County where people have died, such as Territorial Highway, Highway 99 south of Eugene, and other places. Fix the road and safety problems we told you about in the listening session held throughout the state—not grandiose, over-budget projects in Portland!
