The legislature does not need a special session to foist another un-needed tax on the residents of Oregon. The Bureaucracy in the state is bloated with regulatory agencies that continue to enact burdens on the residents of this state. Less government is better government. ODOT funds could be realized, by cutting the budgets of many of the agencies that really don't serve the people, and better management of the funds they already have budgeted. We do not need additional taxes, we just need to live with in the means of what income the state has now, and cut where appropriate, like we have to do in our households.
