I am opposed to a new tax on our roads, fuel, labor, and well, any new tax. Taxing the working citizen more and more is not the answer. Instead, try doing what we individuals have to do each and every day of our lives. Look at the budget and work within that budget. Sometimes we have to make difficult choices and difficult cuts but working within a budget is fiscally responsible. Determining to waive a pen and raise taxes is lazy, selfish, entitled. Don't be that entitled brat that thinks they deserve everything. Instead be the hero that determines to work within the means and make hard choices to stay within budget.
