No New Road Tax.

As a taxpayer that works in the fuel industry this would affect both my paycheck, my wallet at the pump and my employer.

As a tax payer/fuel purchaser I am essentially getting triple/quadrupled taxed for this bill, once out of my paycheck and once post tax at the fuel pump and several times for any item I purchase from a store that has been transported into the store as prices will be higher to make up for the overhead companies have with make up for once transportation costs increase.

As it is, fuel sellers do not make a large margin on fuel sales, and to keep costs for the consumer low, they will probably get even less of a margin once ANOTHER tax is implemented to keep costs lost for the consumer.

Once again, NO NEW ROAD TAX. Find the money somewhere else in your budget, re allocate, and balance. We don't know where the current moneys are going as it.
