BACKGROUND:

Under current Oregon law, ORS 18.180, remedies for a judgment in a criminal action expire 20 years after the entry of the judgment. ORS 137.225 provides that a person who has fully complied with and performed the sentence of the court for the offense, including payment of any monetary obligations in the judgment, may apply for an order to set-aside a conviction that is otherwise eligible under the statute.

House Bill 3825A provides that any remedies in a judgment of conviction for possession of less than one ounce of marijuana that have not yet expired will expire on the effective date of this act. It also states that if the judgment remedies for any monetary obligations in the judgment of criminal conviction have expired, the person shall be considered to have fully complied with or performed the sentence of the court with respect to those monetary obligations.
