

Submitter: Ricki Young

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Climate, Energy, and Environment

Measure, Appointment or Topic: HB3119

My livelihood depends on diesel vehicles. We own and operate a construction and land clearing company. Everything we do or move relies on diesel trucks to get us through our day. The idea of doing away with diesel vehicles is absurd and extremely costly to everyone, not just the diesel truck owners themselves. If you truly think that you want to save the environment, mandated that every person that commutes and/or that lives in a city should use own an electric vehicle. The amount of time these people waste setting in traffic very day would be a way better start then diesel trucks. So called smart people seem to be really nieve or just plain stupid with this idea is as a good one. Mandate a stupid idea like this and you will continue to see prices soar beyond belief. There are ways to help the environment that don't cost everyone everything they have. Let's look for ideas that aren't just feel good to get your constituents to vote for you to keep you in office to keep padding your pocket let's really do something that's good for everyone!