I believe it would be very beneficial for mainly the deer population to use dogs to hunt cougars. Every year it seems the amount of deer seen in the woods, farmlands etc. is dwindling. Cougars are not only affecting the deer population but are also becoming more of a threat to humans, livestock and other animals than ever before. In certain areas and towns cougars are crossing the paths of people and getting more comfortable coming closer to houses. We don't need to wipe out the cougar population, we just need to control them to allow the wildlife populations to grow and see less around homes/livestock.
