It's time to return our state to a common sense approach to timber harvesting. For far too long, radical environmentalism has hindered sustainable timber harvesting and has led to an overgrowth of fuels that have made for massive wildfire conflagrations that have destroyed entire communities. In addition to the former, communities that depend on timber revenue have been adversely affected, leading to job losses and the loss of funding for vital services. Therefore, I strongly support the passage of this bill that's a win win for our state and our citizens.
