I am completely disgusted with the even thought of this bill passing. Every single low life that has ever committed a sex crime deserves the absolute worst punishment imaginable. To say that the current reassessment deadline will be removed and just allow them to move in next to single women and children is horrendous is an understatement. All citizens deserve to know that a sex offender lives near them and what risk level that offender is. Even the smallest amount of a chance that this scum will reoffend is too much!
