I have no idea why charter schools have been so underfunded all these years. Why do children who choose to go to a school that's not their neighborhood. School deserve less money than a child who goes to their neighborhood school? Children who choose a charter school deserve just as much money for their education as they would to a school they could go to down the street. This funding needs to be changed. Charter schools get by and give an amazing education on what they have and could do Even better with full funding. This funding stream needs to be updated and changed, and given whatever child deserves.
