To Whom this May Concern,

I hope this message finds you well. As an Oregonian and a farmer deeply invested in the health and prosperity of our state, I am writing to urge your strong support for the renewal of the Oregon Crop Donation Tax Credit (150-101-240-1).

This essential program not only benefits farmers like myself, but it also plays a vital role in addressing hunger and food insecurity across our communities. For the past six years, I have proudly donated to the Oregon Food Bank, supporting its extensive network of 21 regional food banks and over 1,400 partners, including food pantries, shelters, and meal programs. Through these contributions, I know that my produce is helping to feed millions of Oregonians—particularly those who are most vulnerable, such as children, seniors, and families in crisis.

However, without the renewal of this tax credit, farmers like me will face significant obstacles in continuing these important contributions. The demand for food assistance in Oregon is growing, and it is essential that we maintain strong incentives to encourage local farmers to donate fresh, nutritious food to those in need.

Renewing the Oregon Crop Donation Tax Credit will enable farmers to continue providing this critical support and help ensure that the Oregon Food Bank can meet the growing demand for nutritious food across our state. Your support for this renewal is not only an investment in Oregon's agricultural community but also in the well-being of our neighbors who rely on our collective effort to make a difference.

Thank you for your time, attention, and continued service to Oregon. I trust that you will recognize the far-reaching benefits of this program and take the necessary action to renew it for the good of our state.

Sincerely,
The Cal Farms Management Team
