

All Oregonians deserve access to food. Immigration status shouldn't exclude anyone from being able to feed themselves or their family.

When our communities are well nourished, we are all better off. Health outcomes improve and health care costs decrease, kids do better in school, families are more likely to stay in their homes and avoid eviction, and our economy thrives through support of local businesses. For every dollar spent with SNAP, $1.50 goes back into Oregon's economy. This is true in every corner of our state – in rural, urban and suburban communities alike.

THE PROBLEM:

A Hunger Crisis in Our Communities

The combined impact of the pandemic and rising cost of living have worsened hunger and poverty across Oregon. Today, 1 in 6 children in Oregon don't have enough to eat and immigrant and refugee communities face the greatest barriers to food access despite paying billions in taxes.

Our food assistance policies continue to exclude thousands of Oregonians from the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (sometimes called "SNAP" or "food stamps"). People who are excluded include Oregonians who are essential to sustaining food production, childcare, healthcare institutions, education, transportation and other critical services throughout the state.

THE SOLUTION:

Food for All Oregonians

Five states, including Washington and California, have state-funded programs that improve SNAP eligibility for immigrants and refugees. Modeled after these programs and built with the expertise of Oregonians with lived experiences of hunger and our immigration system, the Food for All Oregonians legislation in 2025 will:

- Make food assistance available to Oregon's youth and elders who are currently excluded from SNAP due to immigration status
- Build on successful, community-driven navigator models to ensure trust and community safety
- Make applying for assistance more welcoming and culturally responsive

Food assistance through programs like SNAP has been proven to yield significant improvements for health outcomes, reduce the state's health care costs, improve children's academic performance, reduce chronic school absenteeism, reduce the household's risk of eviction, and more. Food for All Oregonians provides Oregon lawmakers with an opportunity to ensure all youth and elders in Oregon have access to food.

Food for All Oregonians is broadly supported among thousands of statewide constituents, bipartisan state leaders, and a coalition of more than 180 organizations.
