I feel very vulnerable as a homeowner in Oregon who has relied on (and paid for all costs of) a domestic well for over 30 years.

We have no other option for water and we're careful with usage.

I feel like the lawmakers in Oregon (particularly those from larger urban areas) are pitted against the rural citizens of our state.

I don't think a majority of Oregon voters understand the challenges & extra effort it takes to live in a rural setting; so it's just a matter of time before they start coming after domestic well owners.

This bill looks like a stuffed up, muddled "foot in the door"; so I'm opposing it & asking others in my position to become more informed & aware of what the state is doing in Salem.
