No new taxes, the increases being proposed are way too high. Year after year taxes are collected under the guise of going to fix the roads and/or to schools but yet that money never seems to go where it's supposed to go, and no improvements are made. Too much overhead costs taking away resources from the actual projects. It's time to follow the money as it's not going where it's intended to go. Then fear mongering tactics are used to pressure people to vote for increased taxes. Time to clean house and for the state to live within its means like I have to. When the money collected actually goes to where it's supposed to, I'd consider increases to cover the growth. BUT not now.
