Honorable Representatives,

Taxation has increased so inexorably in the last few years. Who can afford to rest with the cost of living as it continually rises.

We are on a fixed income and see extra fees for vehicles, gasoline, housing, earnings, and so on and so forth. The government has an insatiable appetite for more. In our home, we have learned to reduce and reuse our supplies. Yet, we do not see careful consideration enacted on the part of our public servants. Where is the accountability and responsibility?

We expect more from our children than what we are seeing in the public sector. The examples set by governing authorities are sadly lacking. I respectfully ask that judicious care be taken any time there is an expenditure or proposed expense.

I respectfully request that you would place a moratorium on any more taxation.

Sincerely,

Lynn Saint
