I am strongly opposed to HB 3991, the transportation tax bill. The citizens of Oregon cannot financially withstand these additional taxes, and it is remiss of our elected leaders to foist this upon taxpayers in these inflationary times. ODOT needs to tighten its belt and live within its means without project cost overruns. At minimum, consider alternate plans to redirect funds from elsewhere instead of raising taxes. I urge you to use common sense and vote against HB 3991. Hear the people: No new taxes for Oregonians!
