I am now retired but as a small business owner several decades ago here in Oregon, I remember many hurdles in keeping that business in operation. Small business operations have enough problems to face without yet another looming over them. Besides that, where are all of these additional benefits going to come from? Higher insurance rates? That would be so much more of an issue! I vote NO on strikers receiving unemployment benefits. The next thing we know, employees can just come and go as they please since there will be little financial reason not to stay and get a job done.
