BACKGROUND:

In 2022, the Legislative Assembly enacted a $200 million package of workforce development investments known as Future Ready Oregon (Senate Bill 1545). Of that investment, $35 million was directed toward local workforce development boards under a program known as Prosperity 10,000. Among the purposes and goals of the Prosperity 10,000 Program is providing paid work experiences for individuals from priority populations and ensuring that services and benefits available through workforce programs are provided to individuals from priority populations.

Future Ready Oregon included multiple grant programs that were directed to prioritize participation from priority populations, permit priority to be given to grant proposals that demonstrate effective strategies for engaging priority populations, or permit funds to be used for recruitment of and outreach to priority populations. These grant programs include

- grants for registered apprenticeship and training in healthcare, manufacturing and construction
- grants for community colleges and universities to increase opportunities for students from priority populations to receive academic credit for prior experience or skills
- grants for increasing access to youth workforce programs for youth and young adults from priority populations

- grants for community colleges to develop post-secondary career pathway training programs that provide certain opportunities for individuals from priority populations
- grants for workforce programs in health care, manufacturing, and technology that prioritize equitable program participation by individuals from priority populations
- grants for workforce benefit navigators to connect individuals from priority populations to workforce programs

Local workforce development boards are a system of business-led boards in all 50 states that are funded by the federal Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA). In Oregon, there are nine local workforce areas, as well as a statewide Workforce & Talent Development Board, which is tasked with advising the Governor on workforce matters and developing a strategic plan for workforce development.
