

To Whom It May Concern,

Just needed to write this letter in support of HB4153. Small farms are small businesses, providing a myriad of important things to a community: jobs, access to locally grown food, and experiences that enrich the lives of our children and teach them about the important relationship between us and the land we live on. Small farms create communities themselves, and keep the dollars spent there in the local economy where it can cycle and enrich the community again and again. We take our kids out to multiple small farms every year, across multiple seasons, for the food, for the experience, and for the memories. It's amazing how versatile and unique they can be if given the opportunity, and it's extremely important to preserve their ability to remain open and viable for our future generations, and our planet in general.

Thank you for your consideration,

Drew Worden
12620 SE Lincoln St
Portland, OR 97233