HB4145

I strongly oppose HB 4145.

HB 4145 follows a familiar pattern: it regulates people who already obey the law while leaving criminal behavior untouched. Criminals do not comply with paperwork, fees, or new restrictions. As a result, this bill burdens lawful citizens without producing real public-safety benefits.

The process is also deeply concerning. The hearing was not posted on OLIS until last Monday morning, leaving many Oregonians without reasonable notice. Whether intentional or not, this suppresses public participation and creates the appearance of a procedural ambush.

If this bill were sound, it would not need to be rushed or hidden.

Additionally, why would citizens need to obtain a permit to exercise a Constitutional right. I do not need a permit to speak freely, even against the government. I do not need a permit to exercise my right to worship as I choose, I do not need a permit to secure in my house, paper, and effect, against unreasonable searches and seizures? No, I do not. Then why do I as law-abiding citizen need to have a permit from the government to exercise my right to keep and bear arms--a right which allows me to protect the other rights enumerated in the Constitution. A right to protect myself, my family, and friends from those who would do us harm and from the tyranny of a government which is seeking to erode my rights at every turn.
