We need to stop imposing new taxes. People are struggling and the economic ecosystem cannot continue to faithfully move forward when there is a new tax every day. The way its worded is that people will pay less income tax but people have lost trust that would ever happen and why adjust it to keep people guessing how much they will owe the government for working hard, buying things, and moving the economy into the future. I have put in a lot of time with small businesses and we're all just trying to get by.
