A MINUTE cost compared to total benefits. Tourism will plummet without vibrant wildlife and wild spaces that are protected to the full extent of our knowledge and abilities. This 1.25 percent for wildlife closes the loop—no more taking without repaying. It sets a precedent and acts in all of our favors. Without sales tax, Oregonians and visitors are already enjoying a bit of ease in cost of living and this is one way to give back into this stunning state and our non-human inhabitants. I entirely support this bill and can't wait to hear the great news that it's passed while soon after noticing how a tiny bit from lots of humans adds into a safer, more dynamic ecosystem and, by extension, economy.
