HB4114

I support hb 4114, there is no situation where someone should enter my home without a warrant, my express permission, or a literal disaster happening. Any other case should be punished. If there is no legal recourse then you can absolutely be assured that illegal and forced entry will put people on the assumption that their lives are in danger. If someone forces their way into your home you do not have time to ask if they mean you well, you must defend yourself.

It is my hope that this addition will cause those in the position to invade a person's home another reason to pursue legal entry, since they obviously haven't properly considered the risk to their lives if they forced their way into the wrong home.
