Measure, Appointment or Topic: HB4035

As a developer, I see firsthand the need for new housing in Oregon and understand the significant challenges involved in bringing new units to market. I am in full support of House Bill 4035.

For too long, growth has been restricted by limiting the availability of land, and this bill helps address that issue. House Bill 4035 maintains the governor's commitment to affordability while making the program more practical and workable. By allowing cities to more effectively expand urban growth boundaries, communities can move forward with real housing solutions. Oregon understands the housing problem, but too often lacks the commitment to make meaningful change. This bill represents a good and necessary first step.
