HB4111

As a matter of established human rights and civil rights, law enforcement has no authority to consider the many possible descriptors of an individual or the individual's temporary or permanent location when performing the following actions: surveilling, questioning, investigating, stopping, threatening or in any way harming or doing any of the preceding to any family member, associate, etc. Therefore, this bill must guarantee these Human Rights and Civil Rights to any and all people living in Oregon.

Many Oregonians are daily or weekly risking our lives to stand up for these rights. Certainly, the legislature can do that by writing this bill into law and insuring it has the power of enforcement!
