We signed a legal document as a referendum for this to be on the ballot in November. We all know there have been issues with registration of voters and during the primaries is usually when some people realize either their registration has been changed (don't deny it I've witnessed it) or they move and haven't updated information yet, this allows people time to fix their registration for the General Election in May. I have had conversations with so many people who realize during the primaries when they don't get a ballot that something was wrong, leaving plenty of time to correct issues for the general election. Do not play games and potentially leave out voters by moving this to an earlier election cycle. Especially since there has been an announcement of cleaning voter rolls. This would seem deliberately misleading and manipulative.
