How dare you try to move this vote to May. Gathering and submitting 200k signatures in opposition to the transportation tax within an extremely short period of time confirms how Oregon voters felt about the shenanigans that took place leading to the creation of the petition. The attempt to move from the November election to May will only confirm to voters how partisan state politics has become and will absolutely backfire on you. Voters are not ignorant and will see through what you're attempting to do to influence the November election.
