To whom it may concern: I am absolutely opposed to moving the vote for the gas tax referendum from November to May. I, as one of the many, many volunteers who staffed a booth gathering signatures and assuring all of the signers that this would be on the NOVEMBER ballot if we were successful in gathering the required number of signatures. I see this as purely political, both in the way this bill was first voted upon and passed by the State legislature, and now as the attempt is being made to move it to the May Primary. Those who are behind this push are making it extremely difficult for us to believe that they are worthy of the voter's trust. We earned our right to vote on this referendum in November, and attempting to change it now is absolutely wrong!
