Leave the Oregon Constitution alone. Unless I misunderstand what it says, any changes when it comes to taxes and voting has to be approved by the people, not those in the government. Quit trying to railroad the people into something you want and not what the people want. All this does is show and prove to the people of Oregon that the party in control is running scared that the people will take away their power and quit being able to rob us of our livelihood. Leave the vote to November and let the votes fall where they may. After all giving it until November only gives those in power more time to prove their case as to why they need the money instead of trying to steal it from the people they claim to support and defend. The Tax Paying Public.
