As a pediatrician practicing in Oregon for the last 12 years, I want share the importance of keeping preventative healthcare accessible to all Oregonians. Vaccines are one of the most successful ways that humankind has been able to extend the human lifespan. It is supported by science, and science is the way people historically have sought out the most unbiased truth in our world. Let's continue follow the science and not some random TikTok influencer trying to sell us supplements when making decisions that affect everyone.
