I used to work with 1:5 ratio and I can attest that it's an unsafe staffing ratio as you can't provide quality and proper care to the patients. There was a lot of errors especially with medications and also, a lot of things are being missed out. Also, staff were getting burnt out contributing to staffing shortage with some leaving the profession and not delivering intended care for patients. In the end, it's the patients who suffer with 1:5 ratio.
