The 100 mg edibles with the correct CBD:THC ratio are the only way my partner can afford the medicine that controls his medical conditions and still function. All other medicines he has tried for these give him terrible side effects and many others aren't even available to him because they are contraindicated for one condition that he has that would treat another. If this passes, he will not be able to pay for what he needs and will go back to the interminable suffering that took place before discovering cannabis as medicine. Many people rely on this medically, or as harm reduction to much worse alternatives, such as alcohol. We don't limit alcohol to single shots, and it's not even medicinal. This bill will do irreparable harm and must be stopped.
