I am a lifelong resident of Oregon who loves the expansive “elbow-room” of my home state’s high desert landscapes. In fact, as a nature writer/photographer, that enthusiasm led me to author a book titled “Oregon’s Dry Side: Exploring East of the Cascade Crest” (Timber Press 2007). So I greatly encourage you to favor increasing the transient lodging tax per generating funds for protection of these sagebrush ecosystems and its unique species of native flora and fauna. Thank you.
