

Submitter: Saddle Christensen

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Economic Development, Small Business, and Trade

Measure, Appointment or Topic: SB1548

There is no benefit.

If you are worried about edibles getting into the wrong hands, making the packaging smaller will do the opposite of what you intend. It will cost the whole cannabis industry money & won't benefit anyone.

The only safe & effective way to keep edibles in the right hands is education. Educating bud-tenders on dosages & proper storage so they can then educate the consumer on proper storage & dosing. Educating kids & teens what picture to look for to see if a candy they don't recognize is safe & what to do if they see a candy they don't recognize.