this is an opportunity for the thousands of construction workers in the area to continue apply their respective craft on a special project near and dear to all who live and work in this area, a chance to earn a respectable wage and continue the legacy of training to the next generation. the Pacific Northwest has seen a construction slump in recent years, and the magnitude of this particular project will invigorate the local workforce, not only with hours to their future, but a sense of pride, knowing they had a hand on modernizing one of the jewels of the city of Portland! there's nothing like "I worked on that stadium!" that encourages the next generation to become skilled craftspeople and what could be possible for their future.

nothing stabilizes an area like good paying jobs, and the continued efforts to modernizing our beautiful Portland city scape, could bring the great city of Portland back into the spotlight in a positive manner, and help revitalize our city! just want to thank all the parties involved with this forward-thinking plan to bring this area back to its former and well-deserved glory, in a respectful and truly impactful way.
